world, who is of the complexion that I am there is no concern. All quiet on the western front. Who will defend OPS? Senator Suttle expressed a desire and a willingness to help me and others do something to correct what nobody can deny is an unjust situation. It has persisted too long. It didn't just spring up overnight.

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute. It sprang up over a period of time, intentionally, knowingly, deliberately. OPS has never been responsive to black parents and the needs of our children. Black people, as a whole, are the most patient people in this country and that has worked to our detriment. We forgive too quickly. We do not even know how to hate properly. We could say we hate George Wallace because of what he did; then the man gets cancer and black people are sending him all kinds of condolences, visiting him. National black politicians from Washington went...they come from New York, but they are serving in the Legislature in Washington.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Time. Thank you, Senator Chambers. Senator Tyson, on the motion to indefinitely postpone.

SENATOR TYSON: My time to Senator Chambers.

SENATOR CUDABACK: Senator Chambers, you have almost five minutes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Thank you, Senator Tyson. Thank you, Mr. President. These politicians came down to visit George Wallace; to sit, literally, on his bed; to commiserate with him: Former Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, Jesse Jackson--the ones who knew what a rat George Wallace was; what he did that damaged our children; how he helped set the tone that encouraged the blowing up of that church that killed the four little black girls in Sunday school. And it's amazing to me as I read how white Americans are upset when something happens in a European country to other white people in Europe. That's not even happening here. But when things happen in this country, in this state, in the city to people who purportedly are citizens of this country, nobody cares. I am facing in this Legislature what the rest of the world is facing with the United States,
